Efficient holiday gift giving

Each holiday season, Americans throw away 25 percent more trash than any other time during the year.

This amounts to approximately 1 million extra tons of garbage per week. Just the 2.65 billion holiday cards sold each year in the U.S. could fill a football field 10 stories high. If we each sent one less card, we'd save 50,000 cubic yards of paper.

When browsing for presents, look for a gift that will save you energy, as well as help the environment.

Buy products from companies that support the environment. Look for gifts that are made of natural components, such as grown cotton or hemp, especially for items such as clothing, bedding, and towels. In addition, look for products that are recyclable or have been made with recycled content. Purchase products that have the Energy Star® label on them to ensure they are energy efficient.

When it comes to gift wrapping, make sure to be environmentally conscious as well. By wrapping just three gifts with re-used materials, enough paper to cover 45,000 football fields is saved. Use wrapping paper made from recycled paper. Be creative and use old poster, newspaper, or fabric.

If you're trying to find a gift for that Steele-Waseca Cooperative Electric member that seemingly has everything, consider purchasing an energy gift certificate at Steele-Waseca's office in Owatonna. The gift certificate can be used by the recipient to pay toward their electric bill from the co-op. Gift certificates may be purchased at the front counter during regular business hours.

ects rates to increase approximately 1.5 percent annually over the next 10 years. Rate increase projections are slower than the pace of inflation despite upward rate pressure caused by reduced energy sales forecasts.

Changes to Great River Energy's generation portfolio, such as exiting the Genoa 3 contract and retiring Stanton Station, have improved the cooperative's position in today's energy market.

"We are now buying more energy from the market at a time when it is advantageous to do so," added Schmid.

GRE's 2018 budget includes $92 million of spending for new capital projects—a record low for the cooperative. Total 2018 capital spending is budgeted at $215 million.

Great River Energy budgeted for a margin of $23 million in 2018, which will keep GRE on schedule to meet its goal of 20 percent equity by 2020.

Steele-Waseca board of directors approve retirement of $1.1 million in capital credit equity

The Steele-Waseca Cooperative Electric board of directors during their regular October meeting approved the retirement of $1.1 million in capital credit equity allocated in 1989, 1990, and 2016, along with estate settlements in 2017.

All current and former member-owners who received electric service from Steele-Waseca during those years listed above are eligible for the refund.

For convenience and to save on check processing and mailing costs, current member-owners eligible for this year's refund will have the amount of their equity applied as a credit on their Steele-Waseca bill received next month (December 2017).

All former member-owners eligible for a refund will have their equity mailed to them by check.

Capital credit equity comes from cooperative's margins or profits. The co-op's margin each year is determined by subtracting operating expenses from the total amount of money collected during

Great River Energy 2018 budget: Stable rates, flat sales

Strategic decisions to position its generation portfolio and other cost-saving measures have left Great River Energy (GRE) entering 2018 with stable wholesale electricity rates and a strong financial position.

GRE's revenue requirement for next year is budgeted at $969.2 million, down more than $20 million from the 2017 budget. That means lower power costs for GRE's member cooperatives (Great River Energy is the wholesale energy provider for Steele-Waseca Cooperative Electric's legacy members).

How Do Capital Credits Work?

Because electric co-ops operate at cost, any excess revenues, called margins, are returned to members in the form of capital credits.

1. Your co-op tracks how much electricity you buy and how much money you pay for it throughout the year.
2. At the end of the year, your co-op completes financial matters and determines whether there are excess revenues, called margins.
3. Your co-op allocates the margins to members as capital credits based upon their use of electricity during the year.
4. When the co-op's financial condition permits, your board of directors decides to retire, or pay, the capital credits.
5. Your co-op notifies you of how and when you'll receive your capital credit retirements.

the year. 21388

Your equity is reserved for you, even if you move away from the area. That's why it is important for you to make sure Steele-Waseca always has your current address and phone number.

Until it's refunded to members, the equity is used to finance new construction and system improvements. Using members' equity helps Steele-Waseca provide electric service at a lower cost than if all construction funds were borrowed from other resources.

Cost savings in operations, maintenance, and fuel contributed significantly to the budget reductions. Keeping costs competitive was especially critical as GRE continues to experience stagnant energy sales.

"Employees found creative ways to work efficiently and reduce spending, so our rates are actually lower than earlier projections," said Great River Energy Vice President and Chief Financial Officer Larry Schmid.

GRE's average 2018 wholesale rate is projected to increase 0.75 percent over the budgeted rate for 2017. GRE proj-

By Syd Briggs,
 General Manager

You may have noticed on the front page of this month's Sparks newsletter, the board of directors approved the retirement of $1.1 million in capital credit equity allocated in 1989, 1990, 2016, and estate settlements in 2017.

I am pleased to report this increase is $100,000 more than the amount refunded in 2016. Our average retirement, or refund, over the past 10 years has been $698,920 which makes this year's refund $401,080 more than the average, and the largest retirement in Steele-Waseca Cooperative Electric's 81-year history.

One of our cooperative principles is the value of financial participation. It is great to be part of a cooperative that is able to return a significant portion of that participation each year.

Every year Steele-Waseca receives questions from our members regarding capital credit equity. For those who are new to a cooperative, or not familiar with how capital credit equity works, keep in mind that when you signed up to receive electric service from Steele-Waseca, you became a member of an electric co-op.

With investor-owned utilities returning a portion of any profits back to their shareholders, electric co-ops operate on an at-cost basis. This means Steele-Waseca allocates 100 percent of its margins or profits (revenue less expenses) to its members who purchased electricity during the year, and retires or pays back those margins at a future date to those very members.

Instead of returning the margins to people or companies who had little or nothing to do with the generation of those profits, or who probably don't even live in the same region or state that you do, Steele-Waseca returns margins to those who actually purchase and use our product. Steele-Waseca allocates and retires capital credits based on how much electricity you purchased during a year.

Where does the money come from? Member-owned, not-for-profit electric co-ops set rates to generate enough funds to pay operating costs, make payments on any loans, and provide an emergency reserve. At the end of each year, the co-op subtracts operating expenses from operating revenue collected during the year. The balance is called an operating "margin." Can we get our retirement of capital credits sooner? Steele-Waseca currently has an equity-to-assets ratio of nearly 47 percent. The board of directors has the responsibility of balancing the amount of equity with the cost of debt, and therefore, the amount of capital credit retirements each year. The higher the equity we maintain, the lower the debt, and the less we have retired in capital credits. However, the cost of our debt is one of the major components in our rates. Most co-ops attempt to maintain an equity ratio between 30 and 50 percent, and Steele-Waseca is within that level. Our overall objective is to reward both past and current ratepayers with a balanced approach of retiring past and current capital credits each year, and maintaining the most manageable level of debt possible.

At Steele-Waseca, the board of directors make a decision in the fall of each year to retire capital credits. The co-op has retired nearly $15.1 million in capital credits to its members since 1966.

I did not get electric service from Steele-Waseca during 1989, 1990 or 2016. Will I get any retirement? No. This year capital credit retirements are only being made to members who purchased electricity from Steele-Waseca in 1989, 1990 and/or 2016.

How will the retirement of capital credit equity work? Inactive or former members who no longer purchase electricity from Steele-Waseca (but who purchased electricity during the years being retired) will receive a check. Due to the expense involved with processing printed checks, current members eligible to receive capital credit equity will have that amount credited to their Steele-Waseca account on their bill coming in December 2017. 26095

What if I have moved? If you move or no longer have electric service with Steele-Waseca, it is important you inform the cooperative of your current address, so future retirements may be properly mailed to you. If you purchased electricity during the years being retired, then you are entitled to a capital credit retirement, even if you move out of Steele-Waseca's service area. If Steele-Waseca has your current address, then the co-op will send your retirement check by mail.

If you have additional questions regarding your equity, please feel free to contact Steele-Waseca during regular business hours.

Steele-Waseca conducts town hall meetings in Owatonna and Lonsdale

Steele-Waseca Cooperative Electric town hall meetings conducted in Owatonna and Lonsdale attracted 247 members, spouses, and guests to learn the latest on the co-op and ask questions of the lead presenter, General Manager Syd Briggs.

The town hall meeting, Oct. 30, at the Holiday Inn Hotel & Suites in Owatonna, was for members in Kenyon, Cannon City, Wheeling, Richland, Walcott, Morristown, Clinton Falls, and Medford townships. It covered portions of Districts 1, 6, 7, and 8. The meeting was attended by 79 members, spouses, and guests.

The town hall meeting, Nov. 2, at the Lonsdale American Legion, was for members in Wheatland, Webster, Upper Bridgewater, Northfield, Bridgewater, Forest, Erin, Kilkenny, Shieldsville, and Wells townships. It covered portions of Districts 1, 7, and 8, and all of District 9. The meeting was attended by 168 members, spouses, and guests.

With National Co-op Month recognized in October, Briggs detailed how co-ops operate, and highlighted their principles and history.

Briggs presented information on

Steele-Waseca regarding the number of meters in their service territory, kilowatt-hour (kWh) sales, and the strong financial condition the co-op is in.

Attendees learned about ACRE (Action Committee for Rural Electrification), and how participation supports elected officials, who approve legislation keeping electricity reliable and affordable for rural electric cooperatives.

Briggs highlighted information regarding the United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA's) Rural Development program, which has allowed Steele-Waseca to gain access to funds for economic development projects within the co-op's service territory.

Attendees learned how the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association (NRECA) has committed to bringing electricity to countries previously without access to electricity, thus improving the quality of life and stimulate economic development in those countries.

Briggs also highlighted ways for members to conserve. It ranges from low cost, no cost ways to save energy to investments made by members for renewable energy systems. There continues to be interest shown by members wishing to be part of Steele-Waseca's community solar program through The Sunna Project. It allows members to subscribe for a solar panel for $170 when they participate in the co-op's 16-hour water heater control program. The member earns an energy credit based on the amount of power produced by the panel. Members may also subscribe at a higher panel price without participating in The Sunna Project.

Each of the town hall meetings ended with questions from those in attendance. They included those regarding renewables and a desire for the co-op to develop a solar rebate program. There were questions regarding Gopher State One Call and the responsibility of homeowners to hire and pay for locators to find utilities considered on the member's side of the service. 1018991

The next town hall meetings will be scheduled in early Spring 2018. Specific dates and locations have yet to be finalized. Members are notified by a postcard mailed to their billing address, and a phone call through Steele-Waseca's automated phone messaging system to the number listed on the member's account. SW

Holiday lighting tips begin with safety first

by Tom Tate, National Rural Electric Cooperative Association (NRECA)

This year is rapidly drawing to a close and that means the holiday lighting season is back.

If your home space is in need of a decorative refresh, here are some tips to take your artistic stylings to the next level. There are two areas to cover, so let's get started.

Safety is up first. If your lights are ground mounted or can be installed standing on the floor or ground, you can skip ahead. However, since most decorations involve some installation at height, you need to do the following:

1. Have a ground crew (one or two people) to steady your ladder and pass up the decorations...an invaluable part of safety and for keeping you supplied with untangled light strings, fasteners, and encouragement.
2. Remember to keep a safe distance from your overhead electric service (at least 10 feet).
3. Don't overreach. If you can't get to a point with your body completely centered between the sides of the ladder, get down and relocate it.
4. Don't overextend the ladder. If your ladder is too short, rent or borrow a longer one. A ladder extended beyond its working limits is dangerous as is standing on rungs too close to the top.
5. Do not overload circuits by stringing more light sets together than the manufacturer recommends. Check the packaging for details.
6. Check your wires for breaks and cracks in the insulation that can lead to shorts. Most of these tips apply equally to inside and outside decorating activities.

Light selection is next. If at all possible, invest in LED (Light Emitting Diode) lights this season. Unlike the first versions to hit the market that were characterized by rather harsh and unattractive colors, the newest generation's colors are reminiscent of the incandescent lights of yore.

Why go the LED route? Longevity and cost of operation are the two key reasons. Unlike incandescent lights, whether the large or mini bulb, LEDs will last for many years. LEDs have no filaments to burn out. Aside from physically destroying the bulb, the LED is amazingly robust. Given the modest number of hours of operation, you can expect LEDs to last seven or more years.

Then there is the cost of operation benefit from LEDs. These gems of technological advancement truly sip electricity. A reasonable estimate of power consumption is 7* watts per 100 lights. How does that compare to the old incandescent? Each of those bulbs use 12 watts, so a string of 100 devoured 1,200 watts.

Do you truly want to manage the cost of operating holiday lights? Invest in timers to turn the lights on and off automatically. Really into gadgets? Invest in a smart plug for your lights you can program and control from your smartphone.

MERRY, BRIGHT AND EFFICIENT HOLIDAY LIGHTING

Decking the halls doesn't have to take a toll on your energy bill! Keep your holiday lighting merry, bright and energy efficient with LED light strands.

- Consider replacing older light strands with new ENERGY STAR LED® lights. LED strands are 70 percent more efficient and last 10 times longer than the age-old standard bulbs.
- You can get the look of cozy lighting with LEDs. Just look for "warm white" on the label.
- Unlike older light strands, LED lights give off virtually no heat, making them safer for kids and pets (and reindeer).
- Save energy by setting a timer for outdoor lighting and decorations. Program the timer so the lights turn on in the evening and turn off later at night when you typically go to sleep.

Look out for scams

by Meghaan Evans, NRECA

Unfortunately, in today's world, scams are inevitable. Scammers can threaten you with everything from legal action involving the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) to turning off power to your home.

Utility scams often involve an individual or group posing as an employee of your electric cooperative. The scammer may use threatening language in order to frighten you into offering your credit card or bank account information. Don't fall victim to these types of scams. Understand the threats posed and your best course of action:

- If someone calls your home or cell-phone demanding you pay your electric bill immediately, gather as much information as you can from that individual, hang up the phone, and contact the local authorities. Scammers often use threats and urgency to pressure you into giving them your bank account number or loading a prepaid credit or debit card (such as a Green Dot card). Steele-Waseca Cooperative Electric will never ask you to offer up personal financial information over the phone. If you have any doubts about your utility bill, please contact Steele-Waseca over the phone at 507-451-7340 or 800-526-3514, or stop in at our office located at 2411 W. Bridge St., in Owatonna. 1061065

- If someone comes to your home claiming to be an employee of Steele-Waseca that needs to collect money or inspect parts of your property beyond your meter location, please call our office to verify they are, in fact, an employee. If they are not, call local authorities for assistance and do not let the individual into your home.

There are other types of scams consumers should watch out for:

- Government agencies, like the IRS, will never call to inform you of unpaid taxes or other leans against you. You will always receive this type of information in the mail. If someone calls claiming to be the IRS, hang up immediately.

- If you receive an email from an unknown sender; an email riddled with spelling errors and typos; or an email threatening action unless a sum of money is paid, do not click any links provided within the email, and do not respond to the email. Simply delete the email, or send it to your spam folder.
